Economic Squeeze Forcing Nasser into Tight Corner

Just Breaking Even On Canal Operation

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The Western economic squeeze is forcing President Nasser into a tight corner within two months of his seizure of the Suez Canal.

The government is putting up its economic storm shutters. The full impact of U.S., British and French restrictions on Egyptian foreign assets with which the country buys most of its imports is still to come. But already businessmen are flinching at the prospect of full economic sanctions should the dispute over the water-way drag on indefinitely. Nasser's action came so suddenly they had no chance to build up stocks.

Economic observers say that far from filling his treasury coffers with foreign exchange for canal tolls as he expected, Nasser probably is just about breaking even on the operation. Egypt has confirmed it is receiving only about 40 per cent of the canal tolls, the rest being paid into blocked accounts in Paris and London.

LONDON (Reuters)—Colonial Secretary Lennox-Boyd last night re-affirmed the government's view that the Suez Canal must not be left "in the unrestricted control of a dictator."

"On this there can be no compromise," he said in a broadcast speech.

'Woo India' Martin Told

By TOM GREEN

Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — High cabinet sources said last night plans are under way for Health Minister Paul Martin to make a goodwill tour of Asia this winter, similar to the one made by Prime Minister St. Laurent in 1954. The trip would extend over December and part of January.

The health minister, who has been Canada's chief spokesman at the United Nations in recent years, will head the Canadian delegation to the Colombo Plan meeting in New Zealand which opens Dec. 5. Afterward he will represent the government at the Olympic Games in Melbourne, Australia, and then visit India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Japan, Indonesia and Indo-China.

Of special significance, and not the least of the reasons for the Asian tour, would be Mr. Martin's visit to India. The government here is convinced a focal point in the world situation is how India gets along with the West.

As a partner of India in the Commonwealth, Canada has a special opportunity of playing the part of political interpreter between that country and the United States in particular, and the western world in general.

Princess Cheered

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—An exultant crowd lining the main streets of Mombasa Saturday gave Princess Margaret a royal welcome at the start of her five-week goodwill tour of East Africa.

Near-naked African boys mingled with veiled Moslem women and turbaned Sikhs as the princess, as she headed for Government House, the governor's official residence. Later she rode unglazed and a tiny cornflower blue derelict elephant tusks crisscrossed the British Overseas Airways Corporation Argonaut airliner that brought her overnight from London.

As Kenya Governor Sir Evelyn Baring stepped forward to meet her, a light breeze stirred the flag-filled airport and 100 men of the 7th Battalion, King's African Rifles, snapped to attention.

Then, again in conformity to the old ritual, Beric Watson, 22, plunged into the water and recovered the goblet. ## Arthritis Problem Extra Serious Here

By R. O. MARRION

Arthritis, the subject of a free public forum to be jointly sponsored Oct. 12 by the Victoria Medical Society and The Daily Colonist, is a problem of particular concern in Victoria.

Victoria's much larger than usual proportion of elderly residents gives the community a larger than usual proportion of arthritic cases (although arthritis strikes the young, too) and the forum consequently is expected to be of great interest and service.

The forum, starting at 8 p.m. Oct. 12 in Central Junior High School, will be along the same lines as the two previous public medical forums held in Victoria with the Victoria Medical Society as co-sponsor. The previous forums dealt with the two great killers, cancer and heart disease.

This forum will deal not with a killer, but with a crippler. "The arthritic diseases don't attract as much attention as heart disease or cancer," says T. L. McMaster, president of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, "but to the individuals involved, arthritis and rheumatism are just as devastating as a heart attack."

"Arthritis can be like a living death." According to a federal health survey made in 1955, arthritis—inflammation of joints—and rheumatism constitute the third leading cause of disability among Canadians.

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society estimates that there are 225,000 arthritic or rheumatic cases in Canada, and that half of them are cases of arthritis in one form or another. The federal survey showed 115,000 persons crippled to some extent by arthritis or rheumatism, and 50,000 severely or totally crippled.

As with many ailments, early diagnosis and treatment of arthritis is of vital importance.

The public forum will serve to underline that fact and to inform Victorians clearly and factually on the nature of the disease and its symptoms, its varied forms, and its treatment. The forum will serve also to dis-

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

NASTY little urchins made life so unpleasant for the Chinese proprietor of a suburban vegetable store that he quit and passed the business over to another man of the same racial origin.

The hooligans continued to infest the store. They gave the new proprietor the same treatment that had driven away the first: taunts, insults, harsh whining parodies of the way he spoke.

The second proprietor found that he couldn't stand it any longer, and he also quit.

According to reports, three successive merchants have quit that shop for the same reason. They can't endure the pressure of annoyance from young gutter-snipes.

A Chinese-Canadian who was born here could handle such louts. But a fairly recent arrival, unfamiliar with our language and customs, is an easy mark for abuse.

Why don't the parents do something to check this campaign of persecution? They must know about it. Everybody in the district does. One can only assume that they condone or even encourage it, because they are ignorant, sadistic or half-witted. Possibly they suffer from all three ailments.

A community that tolerates such despicable bad manners is on its way to becoming a kind of rural slum.

Ant-Eye British

I have often hoped to meet a member of the Scottish National Society, the quaint group that wants independence for Scotland. There is a romantic fascination about lost causes like that. I doubted if I would ever meet one of the kidnappers of the Stone of Scone this side of the Atlantic.

The other day I ran into a card-carrying member of this group at Lake Crescent, Washington, of all places. Ooh, aye, it was a sad disappointment. He wasn't a Scot at all, but a Swede—a grumpy, kindly old woodsman by the name of Charles Anderson, living in a log cabin beside the lake.

"I joined because I was so ant-eye British," he said with a wink, as he showed his membership card to my father and me. My father, who is as solid an Englishman as you could find, said nothing. "The British and I get along like two strange-bull-dogs."

"I yooast can't keep my trap shut," he confessed. We were sitting in his cabin, sharing a beer in the most amiable spirit, but it pleased him to talk about his hostility. "They took us prisoner and sent us to Britain," he said. "I thought they were going to make an example of us, and hang us all. But early next morning I was on a ship, on my way back to Gothenburg. The British and I are old enemies," he said.

His avowed dislike was comforting. If there are still people in the world hating old Britain, or pretending to hate her, there may be hope for the island race yet. Only powerful nations are truly hated. On the other hand, Charlie may have been slightly out of touch with events.

"If these... who make wars had to fight too, there wouldn't be any wars," he said. And upon that note of friendship we took leave of Charles Anderson, the ant-eye British, Boer Scottish-Swede.

Frost Damage Shows Up Late

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Lambert Cherry—(H. P. Samnichten) — I don't think there is any doubt that the poor performance of your big Lambert cherry tree this year is due to frost injury suffered last November, and it is anybody's guess whether or not it will grow out of its injuries.

In a tree the size of yours, the symptoms of injury often develop quite a long time after the frost. The tree will leaf out quite normally in the spring, coasting along on the nutrients stored in the wood, and it is only later in the year when the stored nutrients are exhausted that trouble develops.

The failure of the blossoms to develop and the early coloring and fall of the leaves would indicate that the tree's food bank is overdrawn.

I'm afraid there isn't anything you can do at this season of the year to help. All you can do is wait and see. If the tree fails to leaf out next spring, it is finished and should be grubbed out.

On the other hand, if any buds appear to be swelling in early spring, get in touch with me again and I'll outline a program of nursing care.

Freak of Tomatoes—(A.M. Oak Bay)—The malformed fruits on your Victor tomato plants are due to a condition known as "fasciation," in which several fruits have developed together from one blossom, something like Siamese twins.

This often happens with unstable, highly-bred hybrid plants. The "Monstrosa" fasciole is a good example of this, and it is quite common in marigolds.

This condition is quite widespread among tomatoes of all kinds this year, and is probably due to particularly favorable conditions for pollination at the time of blossoming. I have an idea, too, that an overdose of tomato-setting hormone sprays may be responsible in some instances.

RHODODENDRON CARE (L. H. Victoria)—No evergreens of any kind, broad-leaved or coniferous should ever be allowed to become dry at the roots. Therefore, in a dry fall, watering should be continued right up until the autumn rains start. Your practice of mulching the rhododendrons with oak leaf mould is very good, and under such treatment it should never become necessary to dose the soil with chemicals to keep it solid.

Raspberries need lots of water during the growing season but it would be just as well to withhold artificial watering from now on in order that the new canes harden up and become woody and frost-resistant.

The Arabs in your rock garden may be moved any time now, right up to the end of October.

Brown-Leaved Clematis—(A.K. Victoria). The loss of the lower leaves on your clematis is probably due to a fungus disease, but it could also be caused through a lack of lime and magnesium in the soil, and through incorrect training.

I suggest that all leaves be gathered up carefully and burned this fall, and the bare stems sprayed with lime sulphur some time during the winter. Use eight heaping-tablespoonsful of the dry powder per gallon of water. Follow up with a heavy dressing of pulverized limestone, two cups per square yard, scratched into the surface soil over the roots.

If the stems are supple enough, it would be a good idea to detach them from the trellis and train them horizontally, a few inches from the ground. The new growths starting from the old stem should then furnish the trellis almost down to the ground. Make sure your plants get lots of water through the growing season—situations against walls are nearly always a lot drier than you would expect.

First Time in West

Plouffe Creator Visiting Victoria

Canadians have a distinctive national character, and from it they should be able to produce their own national culture, according to Roger Lemelin, 36-year-old Canadian author.

Mr. Lemelin arrived in Victoria last night on his first visit to Western Canada, and brought with him some of his typically idealistic opinions.

"The role of the Canadian writer is to be speaker of the manners and morals of his people," he said.

"Canadians are people with characteristics entirely different from those of any other nation—and they can inspire writing as powerful as that of the older countries," stated the Quebec native.

Reputedly earning $75,000 a year, mostly from the proceeds of his successful "Plouffe Family" TV series, Mr. Lemelin has never before travelled so far westwards from his home.

"The inferiority complex which has thwarted Canadian writers for so long is due largely to American influence and also, in some extent, to our Old World antecedents," he said.

Too much Canadian writing has been an imitation of characterization of other lands, he feels. Impact of American literature, films and television has grown to "overwhelming proportions," particularly in Western Canada, he said.

TASTES ADAPTED "As a result, writing which is truly Canadian in spirit is largely ignored because the intellectual tastes of our people have become adapted to standards which are foreign to our own," he said.

Canadians of all types, and ethnic groups, must pool their ideas to promote their own national culture, he said.

Five doctors, all excellently qualified to speak on arthritis, will form a panel and in the first part of the program will discuss in brief addresses, various aspects of the disease.

In the latter portion of the program they will answer questions which readers may send in on special forms. The question forms will be found today in the advertisement on page 28.

The forms should be addressed to the Cancer Forum, care of The Daily Colonist.

Moderator of the panel of doctors will be Dr. W. A. Falk, Dr. L. N. Roberts, Dr. A. E. Trotter and Dr. R. C. Anderson.

Like the previous two exceedingly well attended public medical forums, the forthcoming meeting has the endorsement of leaders in the field of public health.

Dr. G. F. Amyot, provincial deputy minister of health, giving his support to this community service, described it as "a good form of public health education."

Conn. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt, chairman of the Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health, said, "I think it's a wonderful thing and I most certainly heartily endorse it."

A similar view was expressed by Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer, who called the public forum the best type of public health education.

Dr. W. A. Trenholme, president of the Victoria Medical Society, co-sponsor of the forum, said that "this type of community service has proved its value in helping to dispel fear and ignorance of disease and in bringing before the public accurate, truthful and up-to-date information."

The medical authorities in the panel, Dr. Trenholme said, "are all qualified to speak on arthritis, a problem of great interest to a large segment of our community."

Seth Halton, publisher of The Daily Colonist, said The Colonist is co-sponsoring the public forum on arthritis entirely as a public service. The Colonist, Mr. Halton said, will assist the medical association in every way possible in a joint endeavor to acquaint the citizens of Greater Victoria and Vancouver Island with all the facts about arthritis.

Rulers of Roosts

Wives of Canadians Never Will Be Slaves

By JUDY GRAHAM

Canadian wives are very well treated if you agree with the opinions expressed by a few people interviewed yesterday.

They were asked to comment on a story from The Daily Mirror in London, Eng. The paper had released a batch of letters which would have you believe that British husbands treat their wives as slaves.

Complaints poured in after a wife asked in an earlier letter if her husband wasn't unfair because he took her to the movies only once a week and went out with the boys twice.

Many letters followed. One woman said her husband never took her to a movie unless she paid for herself, the three children and him as well.

Others said their husbands went out with the boys every night. No so around here.

"A Canadian husband couldn't get away with anything like that and he wouldn't if he could," said Ald. Robert Macmillan.

"You can't compare the British husband and the Canadian husband. We are more influenced here by our American neighbors who spoil their wives unmercifully."

The situation here is somewhere in between the two, the alderman said.

Warning to Naggers

"I think British couples are generally very happy and have a clear understanding of their partnership. The British husband has his own pursuits to a much greater extent than his Canadian and American counterparts," Gen. Peakes said.

"But don't get me wrong, he is just as devoted." He believes the difference may be in the wives.

"Canadian wives have so many activities that their husbands are the ones who are left with all the baby-sitting," he said.

One business man, happily married, asked to remain anonymous for obvious reasons.

"In Canada, it is the exact opposite—the wife treats her husband like a slave," he said.

"Hear, hear," chimed in another married man in the same office.

Quiet Days in Country

Clerics to Flee World's Noise

Several Anglican clergymen will retreat from the noise of modern life to the quiet of Grouse Nest near Sooke next weekend.

One of those attending the retreat will be Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral.

At the retreat, the participants will "enjoy each other's company, go without talking for longish periods, pray together, hear some helpful instruction and go back home more spiritually, mentally and physically refreshed than they would have thought possible," the dean writes in this week's cathedral leaflet.

"In return for high-speed transportation and mechanized production, the 20th century has robbed us of silence," he writes. "Noise is all around us."

"The church," he writes, "has long understood the importance of silence and quietness for the health of the soul."

LAYMEN'S RETREAT Another retreat for laymen will be held at Grouse Nest Nov. 2 to 4. "It calls for no unusual piety nor for any highly-developed prayer life," according to Dean Whitlow.

DOMESTIC TOBACCO Almost all the 94,000,000 pounds of raw leaf tobacco used by Canada's tobacco industry in 1955 was of domestic origin.

Tunnel Men To Explain Their Strike

Striking tunnel and rockworkers' union members will invite non-strikers to attend an open meeting today at 7 p.m. in the community hall at Campbell River. The purpose is to "tell everyone what the strike is about."

But while the union planned its explanatory get-together, contempt of court charges against union leaders and pickets were being prepared in Vancouver by members of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C., who are affected by the jurisdictional dispute at the Upper Campbell Lake power project and five other construction jobs in the province.

A spokesman for the contractors said yesterday that proceedings will be launched Monday against Arthur R. Andres, president, and William L. Hunchuk, secretary-treasurer of the union, and pickets.

King Fisherman Total Biggest One on Record

Entries Pass 4,000;
Five Weeks to Go

Judged on the basis of the number of fish entered, The Daily Colonist's King Fisherman Contest is the biggest angling competition ever conducted in British Columbia and, quite possibly, in Canada.

Although fishing after Labor Day is mainly confined to weekends, entries continue to come in steadily and last week passed the 4,000 mark. With six weeks left before the contest closes Oct. 31, the estimate of 5,000 entries may be surpassed. As far as is known, this would be by far the largest number of entries for any fishing competition.

The contest is divided into four divisions—one each for coho, spring and tyee salmon and one for trout. Tyee salmon are classified as all salmon weighing more than 30 pounds which are caught in the Alberni Canal and north of Nile Creek.

To the angler entering the largest fish in each category goes a handsome King-Fisherman Trophy for permanent possession. If the winning angler is a Colonist subscriber, a valuable merchandise prize goes with the trophy. In the event that a trophy-winner is not a subscriber, the merchandise prize goes to the subscriber entering the largest fish in that division.

In addition, there are 20 crests for the largest fish in each division each month, as well as hidden-weight prizes. Main hidden-weight prizes will be given away after the end of the contest; with every entry eligible to win.

Main hidden-weight prize is the choice between a 14-foot elinker-built inboard or a 12-foot cartop boat and outboard motor. Hidden-weight prizes can only be won by subscribers.

Crowds rushed for cover as the mob disorganized traffic in a busy street.

Police arrested four youths. Three were charged with offensive behavior, and one with indecent behavior.

Inquiry Is the First Step

Which the 20 member chambers of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island are swinging towards a co-ordinated study of Island opportunities from every possible angle. The forthcoming meeting this week in Nanaimo will produce initial reports by at least three of the special committees formed by the organization to that end. Tourism and access to Vancouver Island's beauty spots, the new and growing field for small industries, and the possibility of securing more major undertakings on a long-term basis are all within the scope of the initial investigations.

Without question inquiry is the first step. Technological advance, new materials and sociological changes are combining to bring into focus many new lines of endeavor. Industrial research should be accompanied by inquiries on a broader and more general basis. Vancouver Island faces expanding horizons. The promise of new road connections south, centre and north on the Island when fulfilled should standpoint and perhaps as many more of recreational value. Not all of these opportunities can be examined simultaneously, but the attitude of inquiry and the energy which is moving it are welcome signs.

What is particularly important at the present time is this fresh spirit of co-operation among Island communities. It is the intelligent way. Growth of population and expanding opportunities have forced upon all communities the realization that without exception their efforts are complementary and nowhere antagonistic. Our trust is that this initial start will be found fruitful; that there will be indicated much that Vancouver Islanders can do for themselves. With that demonstrated it should be easy to induce the co-operation that will be needed on the part of the senior governments. The Province can help a good deal by pushing its access road program. The Dominion has much to do to catch up on its tide-water services. Every Island community has a stake in the result.

Hurrah for the Night School

THERE are two phases of public education for which we have always been able to cheer: the correspondence courses which bring the classroom to shut-ins and those remote from settlement, and the night schools at which a wide cross-section of the community has the opportunity of filling in any neglected gaps. Sometimes one is apt to wonder at the diversified nature of a night school syllabus, but as to that no doubt the public determines the offerings by asking for them. It is noteworthy that in the current evening division at Victoria College some 72 individuals have enrolled for credit courses, and that in other courses there are a number of adults attending.

What a public library is to the general public in a wider sense, the night school in all its categories can be to the dedicated individual who has some special purpose to follow or who needs to fill. Particularly is this true on a college plane, where regular courses require credits without which there can be no further advancement.

It is of the night school as an institution, and a fine one on the Canadian scene, that we are thinking. Someone had to experience a need and the corresponding wish to do something about it before the first night school could come into being. One has only to turn to the biographies of some distinguished personalities to trace time and again the influence of that special lift at a certain time. It may be a point for educationists to consider what proportion of night school work is a reserving of knowledge not absorbed in the first round. Our concern, however, is with the opportunity this open door gives to those who really will profit by it. In every community that has a down-to-earth meaning, Hurrah for the night school, wherever under kindly auspices it can be assembled! It can never do harm, while it may spur some lives to new and awakening fulfillment.

Not Enough Privacy for Voters

ON the whole there appear to be few complaints here about the machinery of the provincial election and the way in which the vote was taken on Wednesday. Generally speaking the polling ran smoothly, with little congestion during the rush hours and negligible confusion or delay in the count, largely due to the return of the straight-vote system in place of the complex alternative choice. For the most part also the large army of temporary officials showed understanding of their duties.

In some polling stations, however, voters had good ground for objecting to the way the booths were set up. These consisted of flimsy plywood structures each like a pie on a pedestal, divided into four segments with narrow partitions at right angles to cut off the view from one "booth" of those adjoining. There was no partition or curtain of any sort behind the voter to shield him from the gaze of other people as he marked his paper. Unless the voter cupped his hand around the ballot while marking his choice, it would not have been too hard for any inquisitive bystander to observe which candidate's name had the X put beside it.

Maybe the lack of curtains resulted from somebody's oversight, but even so it should not have occurred. Before another election comes around full precaution should be taken for every voter to cast his ballot in complete secrecy without having to indulge in contortions to prevent others from seeing where he puts his mark.

Island Editors Say

Illegal Strike

Officials of B.C. Power Commission are predicting a shortage of power this fall if a strike continues of rock and tunnel workers at Upper Campbell and Ladore hydro projects.

The present strike is described as "wildcat"—that is, unlawful—and to be in violation of an agreement with the contractors and, further, in the face of a court injunction.

The hydro projects involve expenditure of some $3,000,000, essential to meet the power needs of Vancouver Island.

Union officials have appealed to the men to return to work, recognizing the strike as illegal. In view of this fact and the plain truth that in today's booming B.C. construction scene the men cannot be replaced, court action against leaders of the strike is justified.

—CONICAN LEADER

Inefficient Revision

Parksville-Qualicum Beach district sections of the Comox constituency voters' list, compiled for use in the election held Sept. 19, are typical of sections of the list which have been used in this area in many provincial elections in the past.

In common with previous publications, the list contains the names of many persons who moved to other parts of the Island and even more distant parts of Canada many years ago. Also listed are many persons who have long since passed away.

These discrepancies prove conclusively that the voters list revision system which has been in use provincially for several decades is woefully inefficient and should be replaced with a new method which will guarantee a greater degree of reliability.

—PARKVILLE-QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS

What of Dignity?

During the election campaign we heard a lot about material things—better roads, bigger industries, lower taxes, bigger benefits—but we can't recall any candidate here or in any riding saying anything about human dignity. Perhaps we should take it for granted that if we get all these other things—and we can't miss because all candidates promised them—human dignity will follow as a matter of course, but we doubt it.

—LADSMITH CHRONICLE

Pleasing Gesture

The Review was happy to note last week that honours had been conferred at Government House in Victoria on a number of members of the Corps of Commissioners who reside in this district. This recognition is pleasing to many admirers of the commissioners. They comprise a very much respected force who do an efficient job in this area.

The public has every confidence in the commissioners. Anyone wearing that well-known uniform is recognized at once as a man with an honorable discharge from Her Majesty's forces and a thoroughly respectable citizen.

—SIDNEY REVIEW

Bountiful Harvest

The fruit harvest in this district appears to be so plentiful that the people who are usually only too happy to accept gifts of fruit from friends and neighbors are finding that they must refuse them because they are getting too much. This will probably mean that a lot of fruit will be allowed to drop and be left lying on the ground to waste and rot.

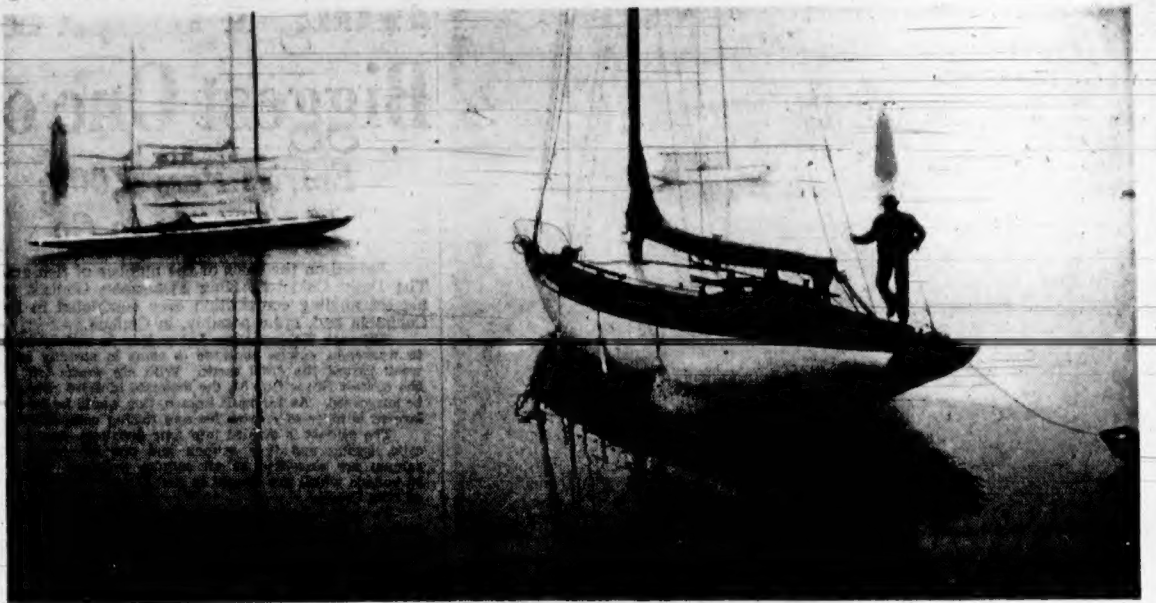

Actually there's no need for this. There is one home to which fruit can go and be gratefully accepted, and that is the Glacier View Home. Gifts of any kind would be very much appreciated.

—COMOX FREE PRESS

Erratic Drivers

Hardly has two weeks of school elapsed and residents in the vicinity of the Alberni District High School are complaining of the irresponsible and erratic manner that some students are driving their motor vehicles during the noon hour. It is regrettable that a handful of students have such little regard for the well being of others, and in particular their school, that their conduct casts a cloud over the whole student body.

Higher Education

Canada Lags Behind

By ERIC DOWNTON

OTTAWA — As Canada's overcrowded universities are refilled for the beginning of a new semester there is growing concern here over the outlook for higher education in this country.

Despite prosperity and phenomenal industrial development, Canada is lagging badly in the university educational field.

For every thousand of population there are fewer than five students in universities. The comparable figure in the U.S. is nearly four times higher; in the Soviet Union about three times higher.

Universities, already groaning at the seams, will not be able to handle the normal increase in enrollments caused by the rapidly growing population unless large-scale extension and building schemes—of which at present there is little sign—are soon launched.

Today about 70,000 Canadians are studying in universities. In 10 years time the figure is expected to be at least 130,000, possibly almost double that number.

Yet the universities are already swamped, seriously worried by their financial situation and having difficulties in finding and keeping properly qualified staff.

Industry is complaining vociferously of shortages in qualified manpower, especially of engineers, scientists and technicians. Services of commerce and arts graduates are also in unprecedented demand.

A bright spot is the growing participation of industry in higher education, generally through the establishment of foundations, endowments, fellowships and scholarships, and occasionally by financing entire colleges.

But no co-ordinated effort embracing the federal and provincial educational authorities as well as private interests has yet been planned to meet current pressures and prepare future expansion on an adequate and regulated scale.

Operating costs are climbing, fees going up. Salaries for faculty members remain, in general, unattractively low. Many of the best professors are going into industry or migrating south to universities in the United States, where their qualifications are more handsomely rewarded.

For construction Canada will probably need to spend something like $500,000,000 over the next 10 years adequately to prepare for the number of students who will be seeking admission to universities by 1966—a lot of money for a nation of 16,000,000 to contemplate in addition to all the other fast-rising demands on its chequebook.

Operating costs are estimated by Canadian universities today to be about $1,400 per student annually. With increasing overhead and faculty salaries the average figure for the coming decade will be nearer $2,000 a year. So the bill for operating Canadian universities for the next 10 years, given the constant increase in student enrollments as the population grows, can be estimated at somewhere between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000 depending on the rate of student increase.

These demands for higher education come on top of an urgent need for relief to the badly overcrowded high schools.

And there are signs that Canada is falling behind in the international race for the output of university-trained men and women needed to fill the manifold and complicated requirements of the modern state.

The Suez Users' Association

By PATRICK SEALE, from London

WORLD-WIDE discussion has followed the announcement of Sir Anthony Eden's plan for a Suez Canal users' association.

It is to be hoped Colonel Nasser will examine the logic behind the plan, for one thing is clear: the setting up of such an association by the United States, Britain and France was the direct result of two events—Colonel Nasser's flat rejection of the fair and lucid case put to him by Mr. Menzies' committee and the determination of the great majority of non-Egyptian Suez Canal pilots to leave Egypt.

The proposed "users' association" introduces no startling new principle. It is merely the practical expression—admittedly still only in outline—of proposals adopted at the London Conference by 18 nations representing over 90 per cent of traffic passing through the canal.

What are the compelling arguments behind the plan? Sir Anthony Eden gave the answers in his speech on Sept. 20. Behind the plan lie two bulwarks: first, the users' proposals couched with scrupulous regard for Egypt's sovereignty and expounded by the Menzies committee; secondly, the users' rights as embodied in the 1888 convention.

Let us examine each in turn as they provide the moral authority for the "users' association."

Perhaps Colonel Nasser's greatest mistake was to reject outright the Menzies proposals. Sir Anthony believes Nasser's refusal will be quoted in history as "a classic example of how a man threw away a great chance of permanently benefiting his people." Too much has been said about Egypt's "dignity" and too little of the important benefits which the Menzies proposals would bring her: Mr. Menzies himself summarized these as follows:

(a) Egypt's ownership of the canal being recognized, it is to her great advantage to have the canal maintained and improved and made more profitable;

(b) Egypt would be relieved of future financial burdens, estimated by Mr. Eden in his speech at $100,000,000 sterling, involved in such maintenance and improvement;

(c) Egypt alone would draw profit from the canal.

Mr. Menzies brilliantly summarized the proposed settlement by saying that 18 user nations fully accepted Egypt's position as landlord of the canal but requested her to install them as tenants who would pay her a substantial rental, increasing with the growth of canal traffic. This statesmanlike offer Colonel Nasser rejected without discussion.

The landlord-tenant analogy—in many ways a perfect reflection of the situation—neglects one important point. In this case the "tenant" is not a supplicant. He is merely seeking a suitable framework in which to exercise his rights of "free passage" through the canal embodied in the 1888 convention. This point has been emphasized repeatedly by President Eisenhower at his press conferences and brings us to the second foundation of the users' association's authority.

There is a distinction here which must be grasped if the real differences between Colonel Nasser and canal users are to be understood. As Sir Anthony pointed out, the international character of the Suez Canal has been maintained over the years by a "comprehensive system" which tied the rights of "free passage" guaranteed by the convention to the efficient operation, administration and maintenance of the canal provided by the canal company under its concession. Neither of these two things would be worth much without the other.

Right of free passage would be worthless if the canal were allowed to sit up through neglect or if an inadequate expert staff were available. And vice versa, no administration however proficient could insure free passage through the canal without the convention there to guarantee it. Sir Anthony's argument is that the users' rights are derived from both these wings—contractual guarantee of free passage and the company's concession. Both were linked in the preamble to the 1888 convention and became established through the long and continued use of the canal.

What Colonel Nasser has done is to separate them with a consequent loss of confidence by the users. He wants to keep them separate, with the Egyptian government taking over the full administrative responsibilities of the old canal company. The users want them united again as in the past, but under a different "landlord-tenant" formula much more advantageous to Egypt. The users declined, in Sir Anthony's words, "to leave the operation of the canal, on which the livelihood of so many nations depends, in his (Colonel Nasser's) hands alone."

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

THE most fantastic bargain of the year, bar none, is the magnificent 800-page book just issued by the Queen's Printer at Ottawa, "The Canadians in Italy, 1943-1945," by Lieut. Col. G. W. L. Nicholson, deputy director of the historical section of the general staff. It is Volume II of the official history of the Canadian army in the Second World War, the first having been "The Canadian Army, 1939-1945," issued in 1948, a summary of the whole show, and necessarily tight-textured and without much human detail.

I would pay $3.50 just for the colored maps this new book contains. Yet $3.50 is its price; and as an old soldier, all I hope is that libraries, armchair military critics and collectors of Canadiana won't buy up the whole edition before the thousands of Canadians who served in Italy have been smart enough to write and get copies from the Queen's Printer.

Congratulations should go first to whoever it has been in the government or on the staff who had the gumption to see the job through and get it done in time to submit it to the critical judgment of the generation involved, before most of them have died. The sorry performance in regard to the First World War history still ripples in the memory of those of us who are left.

The men this new book is about are still young men, most of them, who will find it a highly interesting and often exciting record of their achievement. The editing is beautifully done, each chapter being presented in clearly defined sections that include background material the fighting man could know nothing about at the time, such as liberal references to captured German documents and generous accounts throughout of air force and navy participation in the overall picture of the Sicilian and Italian campaigns.

Col. Nicholson has naturally been confined to the style and phraseology of history, but with a skill amounting to a kind of genius he manages to manipulate that style and phraseology so as to keep the human interest of the story on almost every page. In any political repercussions the book may have, I have no interest, as indeed will few of the troops who are the dramatic personae of it.

Retreat from Gold

BRITAIN went off the gold standard, 25 years ago last week. A Daily Colonist Monday extra announced that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald had taken this grave step to bolster the country's tottering finances.

The decision to suspend foreign gold payments followed an alarming run on sterling by foreign operators.

London Stock Exchange temporarily closed its doors. The pound sterling, long regarded by ordinary men as a bulwark of stability in a treacherous world, swayed on its foundations. The Paris Bourse refused to quote sterling or international shares and bonds. Oslo and Stockholm exchanges closed.

The pound fell to a 10-year record low of $3.75, but climbed again to $4.35. (Par was $4.86.) The Canadian dollar dropped to .83 cents, the greatest discount in years.

In earlier efforts to stave off disaster, the British government raised the bank rate from 2½ to 3½ per cent, then to 4 and finally 6 per cent; let loose an extra $375,000,000 in unsecured paper currency; cut the unemployment dole by 10 per cent; cut the pay of the Royal Navy.

Sailors of the Atlantic fleet responded to the pay cuts by staging a mutiny which forced cancellation of manoeuvres.

Japanese troops marched into Manchuria. China formally called on the League of Nations to act. The League convoked a special session of its council to deal with the request.

Most Rev. Clarence Lamb Worrell, Archbishop of Nova Scotia, was chosen primate of Canada for the Church of England.

THE crowded "Flying Scotsman" jumped the rails near Grantham on Britain's Great Northern Railway, 50 years ago. Twelve were dead, 17 injured.

According to a Huntington, Virginia dispatch, "Captain" Hatfield, the state's most famous outlaw, who has spread terror among the natives of the Virginia-Kentucky border, especially in the McCoy family, is dying of wounds inflicted. It is charged, by Dr. Elias R. Hatfield, his youngest brother.

The makers of "Per-una," a patent medicine that contained a high percentage of alcohol, used some odd advertising gimmicks to promote sales.

One ad of 50 years ago pointed out that in September public reservoirs were likely to be stagnant and polluted. "The result is a prevalence of typhoid fever and bowel diseases. The natural and surest remedy is to change from polluted to pure drinking water. This cannot always be done, however.

"Where the use of contaminated water is unavoidable, the next best thing is to put the system in such a condition as to resist the action of disease germs.

"A multitude of people have come to rely upon Peruna to do this very thing."

ONE business firm was getting too much of the naval gravy, The British Colonist complained, 95 years ago.

"Messrs. J. J. Southgate and Co. have been awarded the contract for supplying H.M. fleet at Esquimalt with ship chandlery, oilman's stores, groceries, etc.

"The contract includes the supply of every article save fresh beef, vegetables and bread. No tenders were advertised or applied for by the admiralty. The same course seems to have been pursued by the naval authorities as in the case of the bread contract, notwithstanding that, at least 20 responsible individuals stood ready to bid for either one."

Quatsino Mine To Be Linked To Tidewater

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The new road on Northern Vancouver Island which will connect the Quatsino Copper Gold Mines property with tidewater for the first time is nearing completion.

A report from the company says that heavy machinery has pushed through about five miles of the 8½ miles separating the property from the end of a logging road that runs 13 miles to Port McNeill, and which will eventually be used by the company.

The completion of the road is the first step in a $3,000,000 program designed to initiate iron ore production on the Quatsino property.

Just back from Charlotte-town is Tom Sturgess, B.C.'s deputy minister of trade and industry, where he attended the annual meetings of the Provincial Government's Trade and Industry Council and the Canadian Tourist Association.

Part of the prize he brought home was a new convention for Victoria next fall. The trade and industry council will hold its eighth meeting here next September. Mr. Sturgess tells me. It is attended by the deputy ministers of trade for all the Canadian provinces. This will be the first time it has been held in B.C.

Oil Exports Jump

The sale of petroleum products is fast becoming an important factor in Canada's export trade.

In the first half of 1956, petroleum exports rose by 282 per cent from the first half of 1955. The total value of these exports was $51,800,000 against $13,500,000 a year ago.

Newsprint continued to be Canada's most valuable export at $345,000,000, up 7.2 per cent from a year ago, while wheat sales abroad rose to $258,300,000 from $185,600,000, up 40 per cent.

Another big gain was in aircraft and aircraft parts which rose to $26,000,000 from $10,000,000, up 139.2 per cent. Total sales of all goods increased 12 per cent from the first half of 1955.

Progress on the laying of the Westcoast Transmission pipeline is proceeding on schedule.

This weekend it is reported by the company that 300 miles of 30-inch pipe have been welded and 385 miles of the line is ready for testing. Last week added 50 miles.

The total length of the main line is 650 miles, and 500 miles of pipe is either delivered or in shipment.

Labor force on the line is 2,100 men.

Cobalt Mines Booming

Activity in the mines around Cobalt, Ont., is continuing with the demand for cobalt as a strategic metal as yet unfilled. Underground workings, which produced thousands of pounds of silver in the 1920s, are yielding larger amounts than ever of silver and cobalt, a vital metal in the jet and atomic age.

All food and equipment is flown in. Entire air-conditioned housing units have been flown in and set up in the dunes.

Fast Time Ends Late For Local Investors

By HARRY YOUNG
October is the black month of the year for Victorians in the investment business.

While everyone else gets an extra hour in bed to mark the end of daylight savings time, the investment chappies have to get up just as usual. They are still working on daylight time. The reason is that New York does not move back its clocks until Oct. 27, and in order to usual.

Relaxed Holidays in Canada Not Liked by Sophisticates

By HARRY YOUNG
Canada is not a holiday spot for the sophisticated, according to W. R. Wright, director of public relations of the CNR.

But Americans who love the outdoors and seek a relaxed atmosphere find Canada just the place for them.

Mr. Wright's remarks were made at the annual meeting of the Canadian Tourist Association last week.

As Victoria is vitally interested in the tourist dollar, here are some of the CNR man's observations on the U.S. attitude to Canadian holidays.

Half of them admit they know little about the country except that it's vast and sparsely populated.

The majority say it is not a place for an exciting vacation, and add its people are polite but not particularly friendly or interesting.

Many rule out Canada because of their conception of the weather—too cool and rainy in summer, and uncomfortably cold for the rest of the year.

He says a staggering job remains to be done to publicize the natural advantages, including climate, of all sections of Canada and to highlight the colorful regional events that are part of the social fabric.

Il Duce's Widow Seeks Body Back

Tiny, White-Haired Woman Prays for Proper Burial

ROME (AP)—Forgotten by the world, the widow of Benito Mussolini lives here in modest circumstances, caring for a crippled daughter and praying that before she dies she can return the body of her husband to Italy.

"I was left penniless but that does not matter," Donna Rachele Mussolini said in an interview.

"The only thing I want back is my husband's body. I will never stop asking that they return it to the family."

The Fascist dictator was executed by partisans in 1945. The government has kept his burial place secret to prevent it from becoming a shrine for diehard Fascists.

If the body is returned, Donna Rachele says she will bury it in the sunburned Romagna area of his birth, at the foot of a little mountain-top Republic of San Marino.

BENITO MUSSOLINI

The woman, who once ranked only behind former queen Elena in Italy, today is indistinguishable from thousands of other Italian matrons of her age—which she keeps secret but is about 70. She lives on a noisy, littered street in a Roman quarter, a small, white-haired woman who carries her own shopping bag and bargains with shopkeepers over the price of food.

Home is a modest apartment which she shares with her youngest daughter, Anna Maria, now 25 and crippled since childhood by polio. Also with her is her son Romano, 28, a professional jazz musician.

Mussolini's personal fortune was confiscated by the Italian government when he died. Until recently, his widow lived off what friends and her older children gave her.

PAYMENTS ORDERED
Last July, a Roman court ordered the government to pay $192 monthly to Anna Maria and $112 monthly to Romano from their father's confiscated fortune. Now times are a little easier.

One topic is never mentioned—the fact Mussolini had a long succession of mistresses and died beside one of them, Claretta Petacci.

Studies Made

Food Habits Disturbing

This article is the second in a series on nutrition prepared by the Victoria-Seattle Joint Board of Health and is continued as a public service by The Daily Colonist.

Teenage is the most important stage of development in the life of the child. This development in preparation for adulthood is seriously influenced by what the teenager eats.

Failure to carry full-term pregnancies, inability to stand up to the rigors of service life, incidence of diseases such as tuberculosis in young adults have been directly traced to inadequate nutrition during teenage years.

How does one evaluate the nutritional status of a teenager in relation to his food habits? If the daily intake of foods include three-quarters to one quart of milk, one egg, two or more servings of vegetables, one teaspoon cod liver oil or its equivalent (vitamin A and D), iodized salt, fresh lean meat, fish or fowl, bread (enriched flour) and cereal (whole grain) the possibility of food deficiency is considerably reduced. Studies of food habits among elementary and junior high school students in Greater Victoria have been made in the last two years. The results are disturbing.

One study (all other studies followed the same pattern) disclosed the following facts: Most group, eggs and bread were the foods consumed in adequate quantities by half or more of the children studied. (Some youngsters' intake of bread was far in excess of the optimum.)

Potatoes and fruit (other than citrus) were adequate for slightly less than half the children.

Whole grain cereal was adequate for one-third of the children.

Vitamin D supplement was used in any amount by only one in 10 children.

Milk, vegetables and vitamin with fruits were adequate for only one-fourth of the children studied.

On the other hand, it was estimated that the amount of candy and soft drinks reported taken by 35 of the children in the three-day period would buy at least 17 quarts of milk.

On what does one blame this unhappy situation? The causes are myriad. Unwise budgeting? Family eating patterns? Inadequate breakfasts and packed lunches? Unwise weight-loss fads? Too much or unwise use of pocket money?

What is the answer? This is largely a family affair.

Let's remember that the stamina of the Canadian citizen of tomorrow depends considerably on the diet of the Canadian teenager today.

Gang Teen-Ager Killed In Attack on Policeman

NEW YORK (UPI) — An off-duty police lieutenant fatally wounded a 17-year-old boy in the Bronx Friday night when he was forced to defend himself against a gang of teenagers.

The boy, identified as Daniel Barretti, died early yesterday of a bullet wound in the head.

He was on his way to work when he saw about 15 boys gangling up on four youths on a 100-foot high bridge over the New York Central tracks and the Bronx River Parkway.

Members of the gang, police said, were attempting to throw one of the youths off the bridge. O'Sullivan fired several warning shots in the air to stop them. But members of the gang attacked him and he fired one shot which dropped Barretti. The gang scattered.

"CONTINUOUS LEARNING"

Montreal Alouettes celebrated full-back, Pat Abbruzzi, is enjoying another great season in the Big Four Football Union. The Als' powerhouse, shown romping for a big gain, smashed his way to four touchdowns at Montreal yesterday as the Alouettes smothered

Hamilton Tiger-Cats 56-14. Abbruzzi ran for three touchdowns in 11 minutes as the Montrealers staged a great show of power in the third quarter. Victory gave the Als a four-point lead in the Big Four race. See story on Page 9. —(CPC)

Even Edmonton Fans Amazed As Eskimos Clobber Stamps

Four WIFU clubs started concentrating on the second and third places last night as Edmonton Eskimos flashed all of their awesome power in a 52-0 clobbering of Calgary's hapless Stampede.

Believed to be the most one-sided whitewashing in league history, the victory kept Eskimos four points ahead of Saskatchewan Roughriders, who dumped Winnipeg Blue Bombers 24-7 at Winnipeg. Riders have played an extra game.

Edmonton fans—20,000 of them—who have become used to seeing the Eskimos pile up scores, were even amazed last night as the Grey Cup champions slaughtered their provincial rivals.

After they gave their Canadians a chance, Bob Kimmoff got two converted. Steve Benick got the other.

Rob Dean kicked two converts and Joe Mohr kicked one. Dean added a field goal and two singles in field goal attempts while Frank Anderson counted a safety touch.

Other Edmonton touchdowns were scored by Earl Lindley, Rolfe Miles and Bill Rowe.

Stampede's one show, and a small one it was, of offensive power came in the first quarter after Edmonton had taken an 8-0 lead. Stamps advanced within 25 yards of the Edmonton goal line, were stopped there.

Eskimos had 24 yards, made 234 yards rushing and completed 10 of 14 passes for another 197 yards.

By comparison, Stamps had eight first downs, they made 72 yards on the ground, completed four of 15 pass attempts for 49 yards in the air.

RECORD CROWD

A record Winnipeg crowd of 19,035 saw a hard-charging Saskatchewan line, led by a defensive end, Gordie Sturdivant, stop the Bombers cold. Larry Isbell helped no end with his towering distance punts which helped bottle up the Bombers in their own end of the field for much of the game.

Also stars in the victory were Doug Kiloh and tackles Bill Clark, Martin Ruby and Leland Kendall. They all helped keep quarterback Eagle Day back on his heels.

Riders took to the air with quarterback Frank Tripucka in good form to complete 18 of 30 pass attempts for 256 yards. Riders made only 40 the harder way.

TOUCHDOWN PASS

A headline kick gave Riders a 10 first quarter lead. Reg Whitehouse kicked a field goal early in the second quarter. Two minutes later, Isbell took a 20-yard pass from Tripucka over the goal line for a touchdown. Whitehouse converted and Isbell kicked two singles to make it 13-0 at half-time.

Riders blocked a field goal try in the last seconds of play.

Bombers scored early in the third quarter when Day went the last four yards on a keeper play. Buddy Leake converted to make it close at 13-7 but Whitehouse kicked a second field goal and Bobby Marlow took a hand-off from Tripucka to go 20 yards for a touchdown. That Last night's scores: Saskatchewan Roughriders 24, Winnipeg Blue Bombers 7; Edmonton Eskimos 52, Calgary Stampede 0.

Next game: Monday, Edmonton vs B.C. Lions at Vancouver.

CANADIAN BACKFIELD

Stampede were as outclassed as the score indicates. Edmonton piled up a 27-0 lead in the first half under the guidance of quarterback Jack Parker, kept on going in the last two quarters as Don Getty called the signals with almost an all-Canadian backfield.

Brilliant as usual, Parker tossed two touchdown passes in the first half, then scored 27 yards himself for another six points during a brief appearance at the start of the third quarter.

TWO FOR KIMOFF

Eskimos scored three touchdowns, one on a pass by Getty

Braves Miss Chance to Grab Lead As Pirates Knock Off Dodgers, 5-1

Milwaukee Braves missed a chance to regain the National League lead yesterday as Pittsburgh Pirates gave them a helping hand for the second day in a row by again knocking off Brooklyn Dodgers, this time by 5-1.

Battling hard, the Braves scored three in the eighth and clinched by Gus Bell did most of the damage for the Reds, who got a fine bit of relief pitching from Herschel Martin.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati's hopeful Redlegs took advantage of the situation to shine up their pennant chances a bit by besting St. Louis Cardinals, 6-4.

Boys Start Fight

PORTLAND (AP) — Brawling among teenagers leaving a high school football jamboree last night resulted in injuries to two policemen and the arrest of three boys and three girls.

Two boys started fighting as the crowd of 20,000 filed out of Multnomah Stadium where eight high schools had participated in the city's annual football opener. The sister of one of the boys bit and kicked policeman Jay Williams as police moved in.

Williams tried to handcuff the girl while another girl swung a pop bottle. Williams ducked and Patrolman Donald Grizmacher was hit on the side of the head.

After the crowd dispersed, police broke up several other fights among juveniles in the downtown area.

J. W. Edwards, superintendent of schools in Portland, said yesterday that school district investigators would report to him Monday on the incidents.

"We have a little trouble each year, but it seems to come after the jamboree and not on the field," he said.

Win, 10-8, in Overtime

Timbermen One Game From Lacrosse Crown

TORONTO—Nanaimo Timbermen are within one game of succeeding Victoria Shamrocks as Canadian lacrosse champions. Saturday night at Maple Leaf Gardens, they took a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Mann Cup final with their second successive overtime victory over the hard-fighting Peterborough Trailermen.

Score this time was 10-8 and it was again Derry Davies, ex-Ontario star, who provided the tie-breaking goal in the extra period. Lisle Scott, homebrew defenceman, added the clincher at 6:37 of the 10-minute extra period.

FOURTH GAME MONDAY

Previous scores in the hard-fought series were 15-13 and 10-9. The fourth game will be played Monday night.

Peterborough was minus coach Ike Hildebrand, out with a knee injury; veteran Bobby Thorpe, under a two-game suspension; and Max Woolley, a replacement from Hamilton. However, Trailermen did use Doug Smith, a third replacement, from St. Catharines. The other is Ross Powless of Hamilton.

BAMFORD IN ACTION

Nanaimo was without coach Harry Wipperfurth but had Bill Bamford, flown in from Victoria only Saturday morning to replace Wipperfurth, in action along with its other two replacements, Pee Wee Bradshaw of Victoria and Doug McCrory of New Westminster.

Bradshaw had a goal and an assist, while Bamford picked up an assist. Smith scored Peterborough's first goal and made the play for another.

It was a see-saw game which saw Peterborough come from behind to tie at 2-2, 3-3, 4-4 and 6-6 before taking an 8-6 lead midway through the final quarter. It was the first time in the series that Trailermen had been ahead, but they couldn't hold on.

FORCED OVERTIME

Bobby Allan got his second goal at 8:19 on a pass from Davies and Don Ashbee forced overtime with a goal at 12:39 of the final 15 minutes.

Davies, who has been tougher for Moon Watson, the starry goalie of the Peterborough club, broke through at 2:02 for the winner.

ROUGH PLAY

Play was again rough and referees Roy Burton of Vancouver and Joe Murphy of Weston, Ontario, worked hard to keep control. They called 16 penalties, including a 10-minute misconduct to Ashbee. The Nanaimo player protested too openly after being high-sticked. Pees are expected to have Woolley back in action Monday as they try to prolong the series and win the cup for the fifth time in six seasons.

Was It Boxing?

Pat McAteer appears ready to toss Jerry Lawler from his neck in what might conceivably be either an Apache dance or a wrestling sequence as referee Ray Felix moves in to break it up. # One of Seven Blackest Nazis To Be Freed

BONN — West Germany's police are strengthening their watch on the Neo-Nazi movement in anticipation of the release from Spandau Prison Oct. 1 of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz.

Doenitz is a double-barreled prisoner at Spandau to have served out his full sentence—

10 years. This fact, in the eyes of West Germany's Neo-Nazi, casts a special aura of martyrdom around Doenitz. The only two of the original Spandau seven thus far released—Grand Admiral Erich Raeder and Foreign Minister Konstantin Von Neurath—were given medical parole. Neurath later died.

KARL DOENITZ

From the standpoint of the Adenauer government, the timing of Doenitz's release is most inauspicious. The German Republic's "enemies" Party has launched a nationwide campaign to rally Adenauer from the right and left into a national opposition.

Neo-Nazi propose proclaiming Doenitz still "head" of the west and east German states. This information indicates the Neo-Nazis will argue the Allied partition of the Reich was illegal, and that Adenauer and the East German Communist leaders are "suspects."

Belgians Like Sand Yachting

By FRED CHEVAL
LA PANNE, Belgium (AP)—Belgians are just the thing for holiday crowds at this Belgian resort but to a small group of more specialized pleasure-seekers the calm is poison.
They're happiest when a hefty wind blows in from the sea. Only then can they climb aboard their wind-sailing land yachts and serve as a sail.

This may not sound breath-taking for flirts and motorists but over sand, and with a sail, it's quite an achievement.
As a modern sport sand yachting dates back to 1899 when Frans Lumont and his eight boys built a clumsy contraption from old iron wheels and abandoned crates with an old beachsheet for a sail.

Since then while sand yachting speeds that often reach 30 or 40 miles an hour, the sport has flourished in a modest way. Along the Belgian coast it has been growing in popularity. There are five clubs in the area with seven hundred members. La Panne boasts a sand yachting club with a fleet of 20 boats. The demand for sand yachting is growing in Belgium and other parts of Europe.

Variety of Steps Needed To Winterproof Homes

By J. RALPH DALZELL
Hundreds of readers have inquired for information to reduce fuel bills, how to avoid interior dampness, how to keep their homes more comfortable, and concerning other problems associated with winter. Now is the time to plan and do remedial work.

Condensation can be avoided by ventilating dampness in attics and bathrooms. Ventilate the whole house once or twice a day. Gas furnaces and gas heaters must be vented to the exterior. The earth's surface should be covered with waterproof building paper to avoid first floor dampness.

MUNICH (AP)—Barbaria yesterday started a 16-day beer-drinking binge, and the mayor of the city took the first swig.
As a 12-gun salute boomed over the city, they rolled out the beer barrel for Mayor Thomas Wimmer to open and start the traditional welcome to the harvest season.
The first barrel wasn't a drop in the bucket. Before the celebration is over, thousands will be drained dry. Five million visitors are expected to pour in and out of the Bavarian capital to drink beer, dance, drink beer, eat, drink beer and drink beer.

Blue Ensign Watchful

APPROXIMATELY 1,500 Canadian boats engage in fishing off the west coast of Vancouver Island between April and October each year. A hundred or more fish all the year round.

Most of them are small boats, 15 to 20 feet long, and many are owned by part-time fishermen. They are usually found in the waters off the coast of Vancouver Island, where they catch a variety of fish, including salmon, herring, and halibut. The boats are usually white with a blue ensign on the stern.

Many of the boats are owned by people who live in the city and come out to fish on weekends. They usually catch a few fish and then return to the city. Some of the boats are owned by people who live in the country and come out to fish all the time. They usually catch a lot of fish and then sell them at a market.

B.C. Church Stands as Family Memorial

By ROBERT H. NICHOLS

HALF a mile away traffic flows along the busy TransCanada Highway, but few people have seen this lovely little church that one man built as a memorial to his wife and two sons.

The church is a small, white, wooden building with a blue roof. It is located on a hillside overlooking the highway. The church is a memorial to a man's wife and two sons.

Specialists for Aged Medical Issue

By WILLIAM RAPP

NEW YORK, N.Y.—North American medicine is facing a dilemma. Every family doctor and most specialists report their waiting rooms are filled with older people. The diseases of the aged are not essentially different from the diseases of younger people, yet few doctors feel prepared to cope with the tidal wave of medical and social problems which their aging patients bring to them.

The problem is not only a medical one, but a social one as well. Many older people are lonely and need companionship. They need someone to talk to and someone to help them with their daily lives.

Readers Choose Freedom for Cranes

WHEN I INVITED readers' views on the whooping crane controversy I expected to have to evaluate replies, in the manner of Mr. Gallop, into "Yes," "No," "Don't know." I needn't have worried, for all letters fitted neatly into a single category.

The point at issue, you'll remember, was whether to leave the dwindling flock of giant birds free, at the mercy of hunters and natural hazards, or whether to incarcerate some of them in the hope of saving the species from extinction.

Without exception, decided by the public, the answer was "No." The public, in other words, chose freedom for the cranes. The public, in other words, chose freedom for the cranes.

The public's answer in my parish at any rate, is unequivocal. Leave the birds alone to fashion their own fate.

But what if the public's reply were to have been "Yes"? Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes. Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes.

WHOSE VIEWPOINT? The public's viewpoint, of course, is the viewpoint of the public.

But what if the public's reply were to have been "Yes"? Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes. Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes.

"Speaking solely as a bird lover, I consider that of all created things, birds should have freedom and space unlimited. A captive bird is at best a half creature and who knows what yearning it harbors? The birds do not care about the matter of final extinction and they have their right to free lives."

And if the public's reply were to have been "Yes"? Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes. Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes.

MORE EMPHATIC The public's answer, of course, is unequivocal. Leave the birds alone to fashion their own fate.

It would seem that capturing the birds is hardly the solution. Adult wild birds are more likely to pine and die in captivity than to breed.

But what if the public's reply were to have been "Yes"? Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes. Then, of course, the public would have chosen captivity for the cranes.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE? As I watch the geese and the ducks, I am reminded of the public's answer to the question of the cranes.

PRESERVE HERITAGE The public's answer, of course, is unequivocal. Leave the birds alone to fashion their own fate.

It is, of course, possible to give some wildlife a reasonably full and interesting life in spacious reserves but in the case of birds this is very difficult. Moreover, the acceptance of a policy of protecting animals and birds only in some measure of captivity could result in the eventual destruction of all free wildlife which, apart from the aesthetic loss, could cause temporary ecological harm.

"Apart from the right of all creatures to a natural life, where possible, there is such a difference for us in seeing wildlife in its normal way of life rather than in captivity and should the policy of saving species through confinement be widely accepted, there would inevitably be a lessening of efforts to preserve our natural heritage of wildlife."

THE BEAGLE

THE HISTORY of the beagle is the history of hunting in England. If a popularity graph of this breed was drawn starting in, say, 100 B.C., it would show some astonishing ups and downs. The line would run level for about 45 years, shoot up in 55-56 B.C. (when Caesar's legions fell in love with them), level off again for some 600 years, climb sharply in the 17th century, fall in the 18th century, level off and then shoot right off the paper just 18 months ago.

Visiting the Kent County library at isolated farm—comparatively speaking. Its main purpose is to change the lives of 458 village aborigines in Kent. Nearly quarter of population is engaged in agriculture and nearly 8,000,000 books are issued yearly in Kent alone.

By RICHARD L. THOMAS
Daily Colonist London Correspondent

ONE OF THE MOST remarkable developments of post-war Britain has been the growth and use of the public library system. The traditional public library, allied to museums and art galleries, and consisting of some dusty old books and a dilapidated reading room inhabited by tramps still exists in places, but it is on the way out.

These new libraries are a vast improvement on the old. They are built in the most modern style, with large open spaces, bright light, and comfortable seating. They are open to all, and offer a wide range of books, from fiction to non-fiction, from children's books to adult literature. They also offer a variety of other services, such as reading rooms, study areas, and even a small cafe. The new libraries are a testament to the success of the post-war reconstruction program, and they are a source of pride for the communities they serve.

BEST OF BOTH

These people get the best of both worlds. They have the comfort and convenience of a modern library, and they have the opportunity to read and learn. How good the service can be is shown by the fact that the new libraries are a source of pride for the communities they serve.

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Behind movie headlines: First reaction of customers at the Metropolitan openings of the three-hour-and-29-minute "War and Peace" is that it's a good enough movie to attain screen immortality along with "The Birth of a Nation," "The Ten Commandments" and "Gone With the Wind"—perhaps—but, putting it crudely, their immediate second reaction is that theatre seats are more antique and uncomfortable than ever.

WANT TO THROW away your glasses? Ever since Dr. William Horatio Bates published a book on how to do so 36 years ago, scores of other books purporting to tell you how you can throw away your glasses (and still see) have appeared. Of these, none has proved better known than famed British writer Aldous Huxley's "The Art of Seeing," in which Mr. Huxley credited the Bates method with restoring his sight.

AMONG THE GREAT detectives are archeologists who piece together scanty clues and conflicting evidence to reconstruct not a crime, but a lost civilization.

This scholarly quest for evidence hidden in ancient ruins and remote lands can be as arduous, dangerous, thrilling and satisfying to the searcher as any mighty chase across the room, even up to Shadybrook Heights.

Through his intimate knowledge of the subject and his skill in writing, the author has created in "The Secret of the Hitlers" an almost ideal example of popularized scholarship. There are excellent illustrations and the translation from the original German is first class.

Born in Berlin in 1915, the German author who writes under the pseudonym of C. W. Ceram, was one of a few Jews who managed to escape Hitler's persecution in Germany.

He has been a resident in the United States since 1939 and has made two trips to Germany to participate in the collection of records of the Hitler regime.

Winning Contract

The Daily Cross-Word Puzzle . . .

There is something to be said for both these arguments. East's rebid made it more difficult for North-South to get to game. But it also offered South an opportunity to solve his problem in another way. In stead of bidding three spades, why not double three hearts? If North didn't like the double, he could take it out to three or perhaps even four spades.

However, North's hand was well adapted to defensive play. He'd have been glad to pass three hearts doubled, and it would have been easy for North-South to collect 500 points for a three trick set. After cashing the spade king, South would shift to the club king. When he got back in with the king of hearts, South could put his partner in to cash a club trick and give him a third round club ruff. Two tricks in each side suit and one in trumps would have provided a penalty almost the equivalent of the vulnerable game, and much better, of course, than the mere 150 part score for which North-South actually settled.

In the competitive auction of today's deal, South should not bid three spades unless he had three spades, or unless he had East passed. North should therefore bid game if he would have done so after a voluntary rebid by South.

(Released by The Associated Newspapers)

ATHENS (AP)—A Greek politician Friday offered to give his Athens house as a reward for the assassination of Cyprus Governor Sir John Harding.

N. Yalios, a founder of the Greek Social party, made the ding made it seem that South offered through the afternoon was competing for a part score newspaper Estia within a few and that West would have hours of the execution in spade length.

Power Link Starts

Laying of 80,000 feet of submarine power cable between mineral and timber-rich Texada Island and the lower mainland has started.

The $250,000 job, connecting the mainland coastal powerline being built by B.C. Electric Co. to Powell River, will open a new era of development for Texada, scene of a mining boom at the beginning of the century.

A 130-foot barge is laying the four 20,000-foot lengths across four-mile-wide Malespina Strait. The entire job, including testing of the cable, is expected to be finished next weekend.

Two lengths of cable will be laid at a time, dropping over the stern of the barge 40 feet apart. Second pair of cables will be let out 600 feet from the first pair. The four cables funnel together at each shore.

The barge moves across the 1,000-foot deep strait at one and a half knots, and is powered and controlled by three tug boats.

Power passing over the transmission line to Powell River at 132,000 volts will be reduced to 13,000 volts before it enters the cables enroute to Texada Island industries.

Boom Man Lifesaver Demonstrated

Donning his tubular life-preserver invention like a pair of suspenders, George Geddes, a MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. employee at Sprout Lake, prepares to show how it can keep heavily-dressed loggers afloat when they fall from log booms.

Ropes are tied, Houdini-style, around the hardy inventor before he is tossed into chilly Alberni Inlet to demonstrate how the "Geddes bi-tube floater" can keep even an unconscious man afloat with nose out of water.—(Photos by Dave Dobell)

Segregation Scheme Hits Dogs at School

NORTH COWICHAN—Segregation in education has crept into Chemainus. North Cowichan council wants to segregate children from the dogs that follow them daily to the school grounds.

Council instructed the municipal poundkeeper last week to control the daily canine invasion after Reeve C. A. P. Murison turned down a suggestion that police handle the matter.

"It is no responsibility of the police," he said. "And we cannot and will not employ a dog-catcher for the municipality."

Division of Duties

North Cowichan Outgrows Clerk

NORTH COWICHAN—Business in the municipality has grown so fast that council will divide the duties of the municipal clerk and employ another senior official as an assistant.

Present clerk A. Vandecasteyan has been named treasurer and collector following a report he presented to council recommending the split.

Mr. Vandecasteyan chose the new position after council gave him a choice of the position he wanted. Council will advertise for a new municipal clerk.

An assistant to the superintendent of works will also be appointed at the beginning of the year.

New Tenants Move Into Hive

NANAIMO—A "honey" of a story broke here this week when Mrs. Frank Honey advertised an apartment for rent.

She soon had a caller who decided to take the place.

Mrs. Honey, the landlady, introduced herself to her new tenant and was amazed to hear the woman introduce herself, in turn, as "Mrs. Honey."

Now Mr. and Mrs. H. Honey of Nevada are the tenants of Mrs. Frank Honey of Nanaimo.

Garage Strikers At Courtenay Still Picketing

COURTENAY—Automobile workers are still picketing four garages here with no new developments.

A meeting was held with executives of a number of other unions with a view to strike plans but no news has been released as yet. The strike has gone on for six weeks.

NANAIMO—Stays of proceedings were ordered by two Assize Court judges here in the case of Mrs. Frances Maud Steele, a Duncan woman accused of the forgery of two share certificates, and a Cedar youth, Kenneth Martin Zawencha, 18, charged with car manslaughter.

NANAIMO—Warren Kraft of Seattle, district governor of Rotary, was the speaker at Friday's Rotary luncheon here. He told local Rotarians that their club was far above the average size with its 79 members and was the sixth largest of 35 in the district.

She Was Run Over Twice

Recovering from minor injuries after being run over twice by a car in a freak accident at Alberni, two-year-old Dorothy Regan enjoys being primped by nurse Mrs. Nancy Mawle before "mummy" visits her in West Coast General Hospital. ## Vancouver Hunters Land in Trouble

NANAIMO—A couple of Vancouver hunters weren't hunting for trouble on a weekend excursion here, but they found it just the same.

Police said they took the CPR ferry from Vancouver for Nanaimo, had an argument and fight on the car deck, were arrested for being drunk in a public place, and spent the night in the lockup.

NORTH COWICHAN—Fears of Fuller's Lake residents near Chemainus were dispelled by North Cowichan Reeve C. A. P. Murison last week when he explained that new zoning restrictions would not affect existing property as long as the land is not subdivided.

Boy Hurlled 20 Feet by Car Suffers Broken Leg, Bruises

COURTENAY—Eight-year-old Victor Branchi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Constantino Branchi, was hurled 20 feet when struck by a car at Fanny Bay Friday.

The boy, who suffered a broken leg, sprained foot, bruises and abrasions, was taken to Comox Hospital, where his condition is said to be "good."

He was struck after darting out from behind a school bus.

Ferry Returning To Run Tonight

VANCOUVER (CP)—The ferry Princess of Nanaimo, which operates between Vancouver and Nanaimo, will return to service tonight, Canadian Pacific Steamship officials announced yesterday.

Princess of Nanaimo suffered in Vancouver Harbor. Some front damage a week ago in a brush plates were damaged. Repairs with the Black Ball ferry Kahloke were completed here.

Police Board Pirate Car

PORT ALBERNI—A group of young men, with skull and crossbones flying from the radio aerial of the car in which they were driving, were stopped Thursday night in Port Alberni during a police check for colored gas. Two appeared in court Friday morning, charged with stealing a tire and wheel, and were remanded with further charges pending.

Aurèle G. and Armand J. Lambert, Hamilton, Ont., pleaded guilty to the theft charge and will come before Magistrate T. M. Patterson again on or before Sept. 28.

Among contents of the Ontario-licensed car was a length of plastic garden hose. A resident of the city reported recently that he saw a youth run up on his lawn, cut his hose with a knife, and then disappear in a waiting car.
